

Abstract

The present invention provides modified proteins of steroid hormone receptors. These mutated proteins are useful as gene medicines. In particular, these mutated
5 proteins are useful for regulating expression of genes in gene therapy. In addition, the present invention provides plasmids encoding for the desired mutated steroid hormone receptor proteins, as well as cells transfected with those plasmids.

08959013-107097